

“Exmaterialism” by Joseph D. Smith

Exmaterialism revitalizes your understanding of reality, because you need to realize that the universe never began, as it never ended. All polarities exist simultaneously, such as heat rising and cold sinking, even though the two coming together can have devastating effects! The force of the universe is so powerful that it is actually perfect.

It may seem impossible to view the universe as perfect, but it is, as matter cannot be created nor destroyed, it must be recycled! No information can be completely erased, not even through a black hole when it is destroyed. A black hole is a deep puncture in space, but it still does occupy spacetime; a body, such as the Earth curves spacetime, thus creating gravity, but a black hole is simply a force of gravity that has punctured a hole in spacetime!

The popular notion that “every action has an equal and opposite reaction” shows itself to be true, as one person's happiness is another person's sadness. When you win a contest, another person loses. When another person is successful, another person is jealous and outright despises the other person because of their level of happiness. It is best to be yourself, and to accept yourself as being worthy, you are in-charge of your own life, no matter what opinions others will have about you! Exmaterialism reasons that you will have the most power when you accept yourself, and to just foster those traits, no matter how taboo!

Exmaterialism is the belief that the universe is perfect, and thus it had never been created, so it will never end. The beginning cannot simultaneously exist with the end! We exist in some form or another. It is the power to accept yourself and to foster your personality. These are the founding principles of Exmaterialism!
